

I am opposed to LPFM. Currently, my radio listening needs are provided by a FM translator. The station I enjoy provides the desired music, is advertisement free and has no annoying disc jockeys who discern its in my best interest to forcedly be made aware of all their sexual and political idiosyncrasies betwixt ad nauseum commercials for which I have positively no interest in either. The radio station I choose to listen to has local administrator who provides information that relates to me and my interest. There is absolutely no other format available for me on the radio other than through the FM translator. The station call name is K-LOVE, and believe it is, and does provide, an invaluable service to those of us in the Oklahoma City community.

Respectfully,

K. Paul Qualls
